

Personal Finance
Education Group

How can you help schools in your area teach financial capability?

pfeg can help – with free training workshops

From September 2008 teachers will need to incorporate financial capability into PSHE education as part of the requirement within the new programmes of study to deliver ‘Economic and financial capability’.*

pfeg is the UK’s leading independent finance and education organisation helping schools to plan and teach personal finance relevant to students lives and needs

Teachers can benefit from:

- Advice and support from experienced education consultants
- Guidance on fitting personal finance into individual units of work, lessons and cross-curriculum planning
- Discover practical resources for immediate use in school
- Help in planning finance based events and activities tailored to the schools needs

“Extremely useful, very well informed and nice to have someone help with reaching expectations and who understood how schools work and the various pressures put on teachers and students”

For more information in planning workshops for schools or how pfeg can help schools in your area contact Sarah Forkan on 020 7330 9481 or sarah.forkan@pfeg.org.

*For details see: <http://curriculum.qca.org.uk/>